

Assistant Professor of Architecture
School of Architecture and Planning

The School of Architecture and Planning at The Catholic University of America invites applications to fill a tenure-track position in architecture at the level of Assistant Professor or Associate Professor, depending on the applicant's qualifications, to begin in August, 2024. The position focuses on building science, technology, and environmental systems viewed through the lens of sustainable practices.

The program at the School of Architecture and Planning offers students courses of study leading to a Bachelor of Arts in Architecture degree, Bachelor of Science in Architecture degree, Master of Science in Net Zero Design degree, and an accredited professional Master of Architecture degree.

We seek candidates who understand, are enthusiastic about, and will make a significant contribution to the mission of the University, which reads as follows: "as the national university of the Catholic Church in the United States, founded and sponsored by the bishops of the country with the approval of the Holy See, The Catholic University of America is committed to being a comprehensive Catholic and American institution of higher learning, faithful to the teachings of Jesus Christ as handed on by the Church. Dedicated to advancing the dialogue between faith and reason, The Catholic University of America seeks to discover and impart the truth through excellence in teaching and research, all in service to the Church, the nation and the world."

The School welcomes fair, critical, and open debate about how various building traditions can serve the common good in diverse places and cultures. The ideal candidate will take a long view of architecture and the human conditions that affect it. That individual should seek to teach the art of building through the lens of environmental wellbeing, to help students understand, preserve, and reimagine the traditions of vernacular, classical, and contemporary architecture in the service of building sustainable and resilient communities.

Qualifications

1. Licensed Architect and/or substantial professional experience in the areas of sustainable and Net Zero design;
2. Master of Architecture (Professional) Degree from a school of architecture with NAAB-accreditation or another nation's equivalent accrediting body where the candidate was educated;
3. Record of teaching, research, practice, and publication on the subjects of sustainable design and environmental systems and their application to building design;
4. Exceptional communication skills and teaching ability along with the willingness to collaborate with the School of Architecture and Planning's Faculty as well as Catholic University's faculty in other disciplines [e.g. Fine Arts, Engineering, Sociology, Political Science, Philosophy and Theology];
5. Ability to contribute to the growth and development of one or more of the School's existing design concentrations, as well as a recently created course of study in sustainable and Net Zero design.

Duties and Responsibilities

Course Instruction: Appointed candidate will teach design studio courses, lecture courses and seminars in his/her field of expertise and advise thesis students assigned by the Dean's Office.

School and University Service: In addition to formal academic student advising, the position requires service responsibilities including but not limited to service on school and university committees.

Research and Research Equivalents: Continuing progress throughout the candidate's appointment on peer-reviewed publication of scholarship and research, and/or practice is a position requirement.
