Assistant Professor of Practice, Intelligence Studies

The Department of Politics at The Catholic University of America seeks to fill a full-time Assistant Professor of Practice position to direct the University's Intelligence Studies Program, to teach intelligence courses, and to administer the Certificate program in Intelligence Studies. This appointment will begin on August 20, 2023. The appointment would be for two years and is renewable.

The successful candidate will teach two undergraduate intelligence courses per semester, monitor the progress of students enrolled in the Certificate, manage the participation of adjunct professors teaching in the program, advise students interested in pursuing intelligence as a career, serve as faculty advisor for the Catholic University Intelligence Club, and help schedule speakers and other intelligence-related events for students.

The department seeks candidates with a doctoral degree from an accredited university in a field relevant to intelligence, e.g., in the humanities, social science, economics and business, engineering, the hard sciences, or computer and cyber areas. We especially encourage applications from candidates with prior teaching experience at the university level and practical career experience in the United States Intelligence Community. The Department is particularly interested in candidates who are enthusiastic about teaching and advising undergraduates.

The successful candidate will teach the popular introductory course on American intelligence and will be expected to develop other intelligence courses based on his or her areas of career expertise. In addition to past scholarship, a willingness to engage in further research and publication, consistent with CUA's commitment to excellence as a research university, would be welcome.
